

Detroit Schools Spend More, Educates Less(Capcon)[2017]

The Detroit Public Schools Community District spends more per student than all but eight of the nation's 100 largest school districts, or $14,259. Even with all that money, the district still generated the nation's worst reading scores among low-income students. The Miami-Dade district spends $8,725 per student (some $5,500 less than Detroit), and children from low-income households there had the best literacy rates among large cities.

<https://www.michigancapitolconfidential.com/detroit-schools-spend-more-educate-less-than-other-us-urban-districts>

Revision #1

Created 30 May 2022 01:59:43 by Admin

Updated 30 May 2022 02:00:27 by Admin